

Female Figure [Ere Ibeji]

Date

mid 20th century

Primary Maker

Nigeria, Yoruba people

Medium

wood, pigment and iron

Description

A figure is carved whenever a twin dies. The figure is tenderly cared for, washed, annointed with camwood powder, rubbed with indigo, and dressed in beads: thus the spirit of the dead twin is placated. A mother gains honor from the number of twins she has borne, even though most or all may die.
